WellWorks Agreement for Employment

Attendance

WellWorks counts on your contributions to this program and therefore, miss you when you do not show up for a scheduled class/event! Please notify your supervisor as soon as you know you will be missing a class/event for whatever reasons (illness, going out of town, need to study, etc.). Your academics/family come first at Ohio University, but your commitment to this job is also essential. If you find that you are unable to work the number of classes/events you first anticipated, please inform your supervisor and we will try to adjust your work schedule. All group exercise schedules, however, should be finalized before the beginning of each quarter. Please be on time for a class/event—if you are unavoidably detained, please call WellWorks to let us know you are on your way. Repeated absences and/or tardiness will not be tolerated and will lead to disciplinary action and possible termination. If you cannot teach your assigned class/event, it is your responsibility to find a substitute.

WellWorks will be closed for SOME University recognized holidays, but not necessarily the days surrounding a holiday. Therefore, you may be expected to work during holiday times. You will be expected to attend all departmental training sessions.

I have read these policies and will abide by them. All the information I have provided in this application is honest and accurate.
